New Members

PERMANENT membership records have been kept only since 1946—so in this listing members joining during the period Jan. 1-Apr. 1, 1948, are called “new” if they did not belong in either 1946 or 1947. Because of various factors there may be an unusual degree of error in this first listing. We would appreciate your help in making our records accurate. So would you please notify N. Orwin Rush, Executive Secretary, 50 E. Huron St., Chicago 11, of any corrections which should be made. New institutional members will appear in a later listing.

Committee on Implementation of the National Plans

The Committee on Implementation of the National Plans, recently authorized by the A.L.A. Executive Board and organized during the midwinter meeting, is now at work. Under the chairmanship of Edward A. Chapman, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute Library, the C.I.N.P. is charged with seeing that something is done about the national plans which have been completed for every type of library service in the country. The mimeographed list of national plans, “Library Planning and Standards” (revised Jan. 1948) is available upon request from A.L.A. Headquarters.

The committee’s over-all objective is to assist in the development and execution of plans for all types of library service in every state as a unified national effort, by all librarians working together, instead of along separate lines of special interest. As the first order of business, the committee is proposing a 1948 model state planning committee for libraries of the character indicated in the following statement of the committee’s basic function:

To cause and assist the organization, in every state, of state planning committees for libraries so that they uniformly represent the interests of all types of libraries and library services at the same time, and include all outside representation that can conceivably contribute to or affect library planning and plan execution.

The work of C.I.N.P. is directed toward the achievement of one of the important elements of the A.L.A.’s Four Year Goals—". . . the further development of state plans within the framework of the national plans for all types of libraries."
Publications Committee to Assemble Significant Documents on Library Administration

The following letter and checklist recently sent to librarians of college, university, and research libraries by the Publications Committee of A.C.R.L. inaugurates a project to assemble at A.L.A. Headquarters a comprehensive collection of source materials for the study of libraries in the sphere of interest represented by A.C.R.L.

The letter is self-explanatory. If your library did not receive a copy of this letter it is hoped that you will consider this as a request for the material described.

The Publications Committee of the Association of College and Reference Libraries needs your help in a plan to assemble in the office of the Executive Secretary of A.C.R.L. a collection of significant documents reflecting current practices in the administration of college, university, and research libraries.

The decision to undertake this project was dictated by the desire to make generally available to all interested libraries and library schools the wealth of information and experience recorded in documents now available only through individual search and contact with individual institutions more or less on a trial and error basis. It is the further hope of the committee that the existence in one place of a comprehensive collection of such materials will stimulate the production of useful articles and publications in this field. Specifically, the materials assembled from this request will be analyzed to determine the practicability of compiling a sourcebook for college and university library administration.

The plan, as now envisaged, provides for consultation of these materials at A.L.A. Headquarters, the loan of the materials to libraries, and possible reproduction for use of libraries and library training agencies.

For your convenience, a checklist of the types of material wanted is presented below. In general, the aim of the project is to bring together in one place not only the published materials such as library handbooks, personnel codes, statutes relating to the library, rules, regulations, and loan privileges, but also manuscript materials such as budgets and budget justifications, letters and memoranda prepared for policy conferences with library staff or institutional officers and faculty, and memoranda or orders issued to implement policy decisions. Confidential or semiconfidential material could be labeled so that it would not be released except by permission of the originating institution.

To assure the continued success of this project, it is requested that you not only supply materials currently available but that you continue to send without further solicitation similar materials as they become available.

Any questions regarding interpretation of this request or regarding use of the material should be sent to N. Orwin Rush, Executive Secretary, A.C.R.L., American Library Association, 50 E. Huron St., Chicago 11, who will either supply the information desired or forward correspondence to the Publications Committee for reply.

Your cooperation in this project is earnestly solicited.

RICHARD H. LOGSDON, Chairman
A.C.R.L. Publications Committee
Columbia University Library

New Program at Columbia

With the winter session of 1948-49, the School of Library Service, Columbia University, inaugurates two completely new programs of study leading to the graduate degrees of master of science and doctor of philosophy. This is the first basic revision of the program and degree structure since the school was reorganized in 1926.

The content of the curriculum for the master's degree may be described under the four headings of foundations, resources, readers, and methods, and consists of ten three-point required courses, and an additional six points taken from the elective offerings of the school or other departments of the university.

The doctoral program of instruction for 1948-49 will offer a series of seminars in foundations of librarianship, bibliographical research, library resources, readers and reading, organization of materials, library administration, and education for librarianship.

The minimum period of residence for the master's program is a winter, spring, and summer session. For those students who cannot carry the expense of a full-time study program, the work-study program offers a half-time position in a college, research, or public library to be combined with a semester study program of nine hours taken for four consecutive winter and spring sessions. Income during the winter months ranges from $85 to $100 with a double salary during the summer months.

Application for admission to all courses must be made on forms obtainable from the Office of University Admissions or the School of Library Service, Columbia University.
