

"... a selected, annotated bibliography of research studies related to young adults and library and information services" (p.viii).

Approximately 1,500 annotated entries describing books and articles devoted to all aspects of international organizations.

Covers recent publications on the practice and theory of health sciences librarianship.

Bibliography of books and prints depicting street traders. Arranged by nationality and includes numerous illustrations.

Summarizes the results of cost data collected in seventy-six western libraries—public, academic, and state.

Approximately 2,000 annotated entries for books on U.S. history. First two sections are on aids to research and comprehensive works, with remaining chapters chronologically arranged.

About 3,000 pertinent sources on health sciences librarianship, most of which have been cited in articles appearing in the Bulletin of the Medical Library Association since 1966. The Combined Retrospective Index Set to Journals in History, 1838-1974. With an intro-
Recent Publications / 363

Indexes contents of nine French-language periodicals. Extends the coverage provided by the index for 1973-1974, with a revised and expanded format.

Annotated bibliography of approximately 1,000 English-language books and pamphlets published in the last forty years. Alphabetically arranged by author, with subject, name, and title indexes.

The Guardian Directory of Pressure Groups &
A guide to more than 350 organizations influencing the political process in Britain.
Harter, Ann F., and Harter, Stephen P. Your Rights to Your Records: Procedures and Aids for Gaining Access to and Amending Your Personal Records in Government, School, and Credit Files. Tampa, Fla.: S. Harter, 1977. 25p. $3.00. (Order from author: Box 17222, Tampa, FL 33682.)
An annotated bibliography of books and articles about the role of multinational corporations in international politics and relations, including works by specialists in international business administration and by social scientists analyzing multinationals from the perspective of their own discipline.
Includes members of Congress, key congressional committees and staffs, federal agencies and regional officials, and state officials.
Identifies seventy-five microform publications for which the staffs of twenty-four U.S. and Canadian research libraries have produced indexes, analytic cards, or other guides to contents.

Examines the feasibility of developing a Colorado statewide union data base to support cataloging, acquisitions, and interlibrary loan functions.

List of series and periodicals with annotations, published conference proceedings, and a directory of research units.

"... reflects the theoretical, methodological, and substantive diversity of the contemporary study of international relations. For the most part, the literature annotated in this volume has been published since the Second World War" (p.ix).

A quarterly journal to contain in each issue reviews of at least 100 new reference books. (Available from Reference Book Review, P.O. Box 19954, Dallas, TX 75219.)

Indexes the contents of some 100 dictionaries of eponyms and more than 500 biographical sources identifying the persons represented. Contains approximately 33,000 entries, covering 20,000 eponyms and the 13,000 personal names on which they are based.

Coverage includes the legal process, pollution control, and conservation of resources.

A subscription service to be published three times a year, including a cumulative subject index. Each issue is to contain "some 650 listings of hard to find and valuable sources of material." Arranged alphabetically by issuing agency, with subject and title index.

First edition of a directory of English television systems and services.

Includes 650 biographical descriptions of the civil and military leaders of the Confederacy.

A bibliography of more than 2,000 books, articles, dissertations, and other publications written since 1890.

The study "is focused upon the information sources and needs of the most active members of groups seeking social change, which are a communications elite" (p.xii).

Recent Publications / 365