The papers presented under the topic "Socio-Economic Aspects and Policy-Making" are primarily concerned with cost/benefit models for information services and quantitative contributions of information and information technology to productivity in business and industry. Inge Berg Hansen discusses the need for national information policies and the design of one such policy in Denmark.

On the whole, this volume does not provide a comprehensive overview of the field: it is a haphazard collection that presents diverse opinions on different aspects of information and information technology in the public and private sectors.—Dana S. Edwards, University Library, University of Illinois at Chicago.
